

Make Your Own Comic Book

A special competition for budding artists across the UK

Calling all comics devotees: BD&Comics Passion is back at the Institut français in London from May 30th to June 2nd 2013! Workshops, live drawing, concerts and movies galore are on the agenda, with some of the greatest writers and illustrators. Get ready to meet Patrick Sobral (Les Légendaires), Etienne Davodeau (Les Ignorants), François Boucq (Bouncer, Jérôme Moucherot) and many more...

And since you love comics, why not make one yourself? If you're aged 7 to 17 and live in the UK, you can participate in our nationwide contest and stand a chance to win amazing prizes! Whether you make it on your own, as a class project, or with friends...

All you need to do is design a comic book full of creativity where the food you love - or hate - most is the centrepiece... Anything can happen: a crazy scientist invents a new smell for Brussels sprouts? We love it! The adventures of Super Cucumber? Go for it! The discovery of a chocolate planet? We've been dreaming about it! But careful now, the title and cover of your comic are important, as much as the story and drawing ...

A panel of experts will choose the three most inventive and achieved applications. The winners will get amazing prizes, all presented during an astonishing prize ceremony at the Institut français in London, during the Festival.

Rules

- You are aged 7 to 17 and you live in the UK
