

The first restaurant challenge

After looking at some menus for restaurants and discussing the types of food you like, you are going to create your very own poem based on the concept of food.

There is a wide variety of topics and themes that your poem could be on, so you will probably have to negotiate your success criteria with your class and teacher.

You will have the opportunity to create your own word banks, to help you create your poem, so keep these safe.

When you have finished completing your poem, you could:

- Create a display based on the poems that you and your class created.
- Read your poems aloud, trying to make them sound as tasty as possible.
- Perform your poems to another class or perhaps parents on parents' information evening.

Resources

- sample menus
- word banks
- websites

www.bbc.co.uk/food

www.scotlandfoodanddrink.org